BEAUTIFUL WIDOW
KILLED CHILDREN,
MOTHER AND SELFFacing Arrest Today On
Theft Charge Woman
Took 'Easiest Way'

San Francisco, Aug. 10.—(UP)—Mrs. Earle Williams, beautiful widow of the famous motion picture star, killed herself and her family of three with chloroform Sunday to avoid the disgrace of arrest today on a charge of stealing $3,400. Mrs. George L. Fish told the United Press in an exclusive statement.

Mrs. Fish, a kindly old lady, was Florine Williams' benefactress and wife of the owner of the Nob Hill apartment house in which the tragedy occurred.

"Mrs. Williams and her mother, Mrs. Clarissa Walz, entered a suicide pact to take their own lives and the lives of little Joan Constance and Earle so that Mrs. Williams would not be arrested this morning for stealing $3,400 from her maid," said Mrs. Fish.

The theft became known last Thursday, when the maid, Catherine Cole, confronted Mrs. Williams and obtained a confession.

"An agreement was reached whereby no formal action would be taken until today, to give Mrs. Williams opportunity to make restitution in the interim if she could."

"She raised $500, which I think was telegraphed to her by Constance Talmadge."

"Saturday night Mrs. Cole announced that she would have Mrs. Williams arrested this morning."

"The next we knew of affairs was when we found the dead bodies of Mrs. Walz, Joan Constance and Earle, and the dying mother."

Mrs. Fish's statement was corroborated by Harry McKenzie, Mrs. Williams' attorney.

Result of Pact

The tragedy was discovered at 9:30 A. M. On the faces of the two women and two children were cotton pads, saturated with chloroform. Florine Williams was still living, but died in Central Emergency hospital seven hours later without regaining consciousness.

The wholesale chloroforming was the result of a suicide pact between Florine and her 80-year-old mother, Mrs. Fish asserted.

"Mrs. Walz told me she wished she could die," Mrs. Fish said. "She knew, of course, that I was aware of the impending arrest. Mrs. Williams said to me, 'I've been insane since Thursday.' It was on Thursday that she confessed to the theft of Mrs. Cole's funds."

Mrs. Williams, her mother and two children, moved into the Pine Street apartment last September, accompanied by three maids, according to Mrs. Fish. The apartment rented for $175 a month. The initial $175 was all that was ever paid, Mrs. Fish said.

"When I discovered that Mrs. Williams was only making $125 a month working in a San Francisco film exchange, I insisted that she move into a less expensive apartment in the building," she added. "She didn't pay the rent on that either, but I just couldn't bear to think of evicting her with those two beautiful children."

Found Bank Book

Mrs. Fish said Mrs. Williams had found Mrs. Cole's bank book, and had secretly forged drafts and sent them, with the pass book attached, to the Los Angeles bank. These drafts were honored for a total of $3,400 before Mrs. Cole discovered that her account was being drained, Mrs. Fish said.

"Mrs. Cole confronted Mrs. Williams and obtained a confession. Rather than cause an arrest last Thursday, she gave Mrs. Williams until today to make restitution."

"Saturday night Mrs. Williams admitted that she had raised only $500 of the $3,400. Mrs. Cole left the apartment, and announced she would ask a warrant for Mrs. Williams' arrest."

"Sunday morning we found Joan Constance and Earle Williams and Mrs. Walz dead and Florine Williams dying."

John Constance was seven years of age, and Earle four.

In a court action in Los Angeles some time ago, Mrs. Williams asserted that Wallace Harvey of that city was the father of her son.

Four letters, two of them written by Mrs. Williams and two by her mother, which were found in the home, corroborated Mrs. Fish's version of the suicide pact.

Mrs. Williams wrote one of them to Mrs. Fish and the other to Harry McKenzie, a lawyer. Mrs. Walz had addressed one of hers to a sister in Brooklyn, and one to a friend.

Mrs. Williams' letter to McKenzie said:

"I am taking mother and the babies with me as I am all they have. I can not go on any longer. If I am wrong, let God be my judge."

Mrs. Walz wrote one letter to Mrs. H. Maruse of New Orleans which concluded: "goodbye forever."

LAWLESSNESS IN ENFORCEMENT IS
BASIS OF REPORTWickersham Commission
Suggests Changes In Judicial Practice

Washington, Aug. 10.—(UP)—The Wickersham Commission, in a report to President Hoover today on lawlessness in law enforcement, recommended for "serious consideration" eleven changes in current judicial practices.

The recommendations were designed to correct what the commission's investigators regarded as injustices in the legal system. The commission explained that it realizes some of the evils it sought to cure were the fault of individual trial judges and prosecutors rather than general practices. However, while not urging early adoption of the suggestions, the commission said it did recommend them for serious consideration.

The recommendations were:

"1. The establishment of a statutory minimum time for the preparation of the defense.

"2. The adoption by the states of the Federal statutory rule by which a judge is automatically disqualified from sitting when the accused files an affidavit alleging facts sufficient to constitute a real possibility of bias.

"3. The requirement that the state shall seasonably furnish a list of witnesses to the accused.

"4. Representation of the accused by counsel in all cases unless the penalty is very light or unless the accused has definitely refused counsel.

"5. The inclusion of qualified persons on jury lists regardless of their color.

"6. The simplification and clarification of the law relating to the admissibility of evidence of other offenses than that for which the accused is on trial.

"7. The allowance of comment upon the failure of the accused to testify.

"8. The abolition of payment of judges, prosecutors and court officials from fines and costs.

"9. The giving to the trial judge power to comment on the weight of the evidence.

"10. The giving of power to Appellate Courts to grant new trials if required by justice, whether any exception has been taken or not in the court below."

"THIRD DEGREE" HIT

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—A tale of systematized police brutality spreading over half the nation—a 10-year record of illegal law enforcement by barbarous "third degree" methods—was unfolded today by the Wickersham commission.

Asserting its duty was to lay the "naked, ugly facts" before the public, the commission crammed "lawlessness in Law Enforcement" more than five score proved instances of extorted confessions.

It urged upon President Hoover new legislation, or a constitutional amendment if necessary, to abolish "conduct so violative of the fundamental principles of constitutional liberty."

It cited the Leopold-Loeb case, in which an innocent school teacher was beaten into confession, as having focused attention upon the "third degree."

It turned to the Snook case of Ohio as showing the unfavorable relations to a prosecutor who struck the University Professor on the jaw to obtain a confession.

One case, however, the commission refused to discuss, asserting flatly because of inability to examine witnesses and because a pardon for one of the men accused of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing now is under consideration.

In addition to its assault upon the "third degree," the report condemned as too prevalent cases of conscious "unfairness in prosecutions" by District Attorneys and judges.

It dealt with nearly 150 instances of trials following so closely upon arrests as to leave the accused no time for defense; denial of counsel to defendants and actual misconduct by court and prosecutor.

Found Many Instances

The bulk of the report, written by Professor Zechariah Chafee, Jr., of Harvard, and Walter H. Pollak and Carl S. Stern of the New York bar, asserted that despite the secrecy and denial of police brutality instances of the "third degree" had been found in "considerably over half the states."

Actual cases were cited of prolonged sleeplessness; severe beatings with a rubber hose, sand bag, fist or telephone book; questioning under duress or the corpse; cramming men into cells with diseased persons; administering the "water cure"; and handcuffing men upside down while spraying them with tear gas.

"The police point of view must be understood," the report said. "Despite the occasional influences of politics and corruption, most police men are to be conceived as conscientious hard-working. They risk their (Continued on Page 2).

DOUBLE FUNERAL FOR VICTIMS OF
INFECTION TODAYTwo Children Of Mr. and
Mrs. Wm. Zopf Dead:
Third Near Death

Severe attacks of gastro-enteritis, resulted in the deaths of two small children of Mr. and Mrs. William Zopf, 610 North Dement avenue, over the week-end and a third child is at the Dixon public hospital, critically ill from the same infection with slight hope for recovery.

Sherwood, aged five years and six months, passed away at the family home Saturday afternoon at 3:30 after a short illness. Two twin sons, Charles and Robert were quite ill and were taken at once to the hospital where a consultation was held. Charles, aged eight years and six months, died Saturday evening about 10:30 and little hope was entertained for the recovery of the other twin son. Physicians who conducted the consultation gave as the cause of death as gastro-enteritis, an infection of the stomach and intestines. Several cases of the infection are being treated in Dixon and vicinity at the present time, physicians state, and some adults are suffering from the affliction.

Double funeral services were conducted from St. Anne's Catholic church this afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Fr. Flynn officiating and interment was in Oakwood.

The parents, two sisters, Florence and Isabelle and two brothers, Richard and Robert, survive to mourn the tragic passing of the two children.

Hay Fever Attack
Turns Meal Ticket

Chicago, Aug. 10.—(AP)—And now even a good attack of hay fever can be turned into a meal ticket.

Free board and lodging has been offered to such sufferers by the Illinois Research Hospital to test the theory that if pollen is filtered out of one's sleeping quarters, the patient can carry on through the next day with a reasonable degree of comfort.

From Aug. 15 until Oct. 1, volunteer patients are to sleep in shifts in a ward where all pollen has been eradicated from the air.

The patients will remain from four days to a week in the ward. The hospital staff will keep a record of the speed, with which the symptoms disappear, and how long it is after the patients are free from pollen before the symptoms recur.

Two Fatalities In
LaSalle Co. Sunday

LaSalle, Ill., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Two persons were killed in automobile accidents near LaSalle over the week-end.

Mrs. Mary J. Rowe, 50, LaSalle, was struck by an automobile driven by Roger A. Noon, a LaSalle newspaper reporter. She died in a hospital a half hour later.

Frank Enrico, 21, of Marseilles, was killed in a collision with a car driven by Clarence Arnold, 22, of Chicago. Arnold and four others were injured.

JEALOUS SUITOR
SHOT ROCKFORD
WOMAN AND SELFVictim Is Near Death:
Man, Aged 60, Was Killed Instantly

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 10.—(UP)—Shot by a jealous suitor before he committed suicide, Mrs. Ida Guttman, Jr., was near death today in a Rockford hospital. Harvey J. Hogan, 60, who wounded her, killed himself.

Hogan fired twice at Mrs. Guttman. One bullet struck her left arm and passed through her chest. The second entered her back.

Hogan, police were told, had gone to Mrs. Guttman's home to berate her for having taken an automobile with a friend. As she talked to him, Hogan kept one hand in his pocket.

"What have you in your pocket?" the woman asked.

"It's a gun and I think I'll use it," Hogan replied, drawing the weapon and starting to fire.

As the wounded woman ran screaming from the house, Hogan sent a bullet through his heart. His body sprawled in the doorway, where officers found it a few minutes later. Mrs. Guttman's condition is critical, doctors said.

Family Penny-ying
Way On Vacation

Oquawka, Ill., Aug. 10.—(AP)—S. N. Lumbeck, a grocer, and his family were penny-ying their way along today on their second annual vacation.

Lumbeck places all the pennies he takes in over his grocery counter in tobacco tins, reserving them for the family vacation.

Last year, the first of their vacations, they toured four states.

"This year they are starting out with $60, all in pennies, and are planning a longer trip."

"It's lots of fun," Lumbeck said, "to see the filling station, restaurant men and others open their eyes at our penny cans."

Half Million Loss
In Danville Blaze

Danville, Ill., Aug. 10.—(UP)—Fire, originating in the Feldkant Candy Company building, located in the business district here, caused a loss of $500,000 early yesterday, it was estimated by underwriters today.

The fire completely destroyed the candy company's building and smoke and water caused damage to adjacent buildings which consisted of two clothing stores next door, a garage and a telephone building.

Firemen fought the blaze for six hours before bringing it under control. Defective wires are believed to have caused the blaze.

CASUALTIES IN BERLIN RIOTING
UNKNOWN TODAYPolice Dispersed Commu-
nists With Rifle Fire:
Toll Undetermined

Berlin, Aug. 10.—(UP)—Heavy police patrols sought to maintain order today after a night of terror in which Communists and police battled during riots in the streets of the Capital.

The fighting broke out after returns in the plebiscite for dissolution of the Prussian Diet showed the voters had rejected the extremist political parties' demands for disbandment of the Diet.

Casualties remained uncertain, but it was known that two police officers and at least one demonstrator had been killed and 15 others were in hospitals suffering from severe wounds.

Trouble started when police raided a Communist meeting near Buelow Platz in the evening and Communists fired on them from darkened houses. The rioting rapidly developed into organized street fighting.

The shooting began at 8:30 P. M. It continued sporadically until midnight, with occasional bursts of furious fighting. Police reserves gradually gained control of the situation and the district became quiet before morning.

A reward of 3,000 marks (about $750) was offered by Police Chief Graefzinski for apprehension of the men who killed the two police captains.

Pedestrians Searched

The district around Buelow Platz continued in a state of siege through the night, although the battle ended about midnight. Occasional shots were fired and strong patrols of police kept the streets cleared. All pedestrians were searched for arms.

The police in trucks, supported by armored cars, rumbled through the streets. They fired frequently into windows or at objects on roofs where Communist snipers had been hidden. The street in front of the Communist headquarters was crowded with police, many armed with rifles.

Near Buelow Platz about 1,000 Communists were forced to raise their hands above their heads and march to police headquarters where they were searched for arms. A minor fist fight started and was rapidly followed by an outbreak of gun fire.

The streets cleared in an instant. People hysterically dashed for shelter. Communists dashed into houses around the Buelow Platz, which they barricaded and opened fire on the police. Revolvers and rifles were used by both sides. The Communists carried their wounded away as rapidly as possible.

Final returns in the unsuccessful plebiscite for dissolution of the Prussian Diet were: in favor of dissolution, 9,938,228; against 362,885.

The number of votes required to force dissolution was 13,444,500.

The fascists, most powerful opposition group, supported the plebiscite.

STRIKE TIES UP
WORK ON HOOVER
DAM IN NEVADAGovernment Action
Expected To Settle
Differences

Boulder City, Nev., Aug. 10.—(UP)—Government action to halt a strike of workmen on the huge Hoover dam project was awaited today as representatives of the strikers unsuccessfully sought to arbitrate their wage disputes with representatives of the Six Companies, Inc., contractors.

For 48 hours not a shovel has turned nor a pound of rock moved from the tunnels now under construction on the Colorado river.

Although only 300 men were on strike, another 1,200 were idle following announcement of the contractors that work would be halted to "give the men a chance to cool off and rest."

Strikers, the majority of them muckers in the tunnels through which the river water will flow while the dam actually is under construction, walked off the job Friday night.

They protested against a cut in wages from the prevailing scale of $5 to $4, when they were forced to pay $1.50 daily for board to a boarding house contractor.

They demanded that safety measures, including day rooms, be installed at each tunnel entrance. They asked that cold water be supplied them until such time as ice machinery is installed, pointing out that water piped across the desert under temperatures which reach 140 degrees is almost too hot to drink.

EXPET SETTLEMENT.

Washington, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Commissioner Mead of the Bureau of Reclamation said today he expected an orderly settlement of the Colorado river dam strike within the next few days.

The Commissioner said the present wage rate at the dam was above the prevailing wage rate for the region and that it probably would be maintained.

The difficulty at the dam he added has not been due to any controversy over wages.

For the past two weeks, Mead said, due to the unusual heat in the canyon, which has at times reached 130 degrees, the contractor, Six Companies, Inc., has considered shutting down work until the weather moderated.

"The contractor did not do so," Mead continued, "because of the large number of men such action inevitably would throw out of employment."

Work was shut down at the dam, however, following the demand of the workers for an increase in the wage scale. This was an outgrowth, the Commissioner explained, of the fact that 30 men had had no longer needed. The contractor, he said, instead of discharging the men, offered them outside work at outside wages, which are $1 per day less than for the tunnel work.

State Trap Shoot

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 8.—(UP)—Bart Lewis, Auburn, three times winner of the grand American handicap, took honors in the Elks state trap shoot here yesterday when he broke a total of 198 out of 200 targets.

Lewis broke 99 out of a possible 100 targets in the major event of the day to defeat the field. L. Gilmore, Fairview, and Ralph and Homer Clark, Springfield, tied for second honors by breaking 97 targets.

James Knox, veteran local shooter, had a perfect day when he broke all of 500 targets in a special event.

Small's Decision
Is Up To Friends

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Len Small has let it be known that he may run for Governor again.

It depends on his friends. If there are enough of them and they bring favorable reports from over the state he may announce his candidacy at the Kankakee county Republican rally, September 19, but not before, it was announced here today.

It had been expected he would pick Illinois Day at the Kankakee Interstate Fair, Tuesday, August 18, for the announcement.

THE TEACHERS "IF"

IF YOU can take your dreams into the classroom.
And always make them part of each day's work—
If you can face the countless petty problems
Nor turn from them nor ever try to shirk—

If you can live so that the child you work with Deep in his heart knows you to be a man—

If you can take "I can't" from out his language
And put in its place a vigorous "I can"—

If you can take love with you to the classroom,
And yet on firmness never shut the door—

If you can teach a child the love of Nature
So that he helps himself to all her store—

If you can teach him life is what we make it,
That he himself can be his only bar
If you can tell him something of the heavens,
Or something of the wonder of a star—

If you, with simple bits of truth and honor,
His better self occasionally reach—
And yet not overdo nor have him dub you

As one who is inclined to ever preach—
If you impart to him of bit of liking
For all the wondrous things we find in print—

Yet have him understand to be happy,
Play, exercise, fresh air he must not stint—
If you can give of all the best that's in you,

And in the giving always happy be
If you can find the good that's hidden somewhere
If you can do these things and all the others
That teachers everywhere do each day—

You're in the work that you were surely meant for;
Take hold of it! Know it's your place and stay!

Ferger-Long

Nuptials Saturday

On Saturday at high noon at the residence of Rev. P. H. Stahl of Natchua a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized when Rev. Stahl officiated at the marriage of Miss Delores A. Long and Wm. F. Ferger, both of Dixon. Mrs. F. off of this city attended the bride.

The bride has been an efficient clerk at the Kline department store, where she was employed following her graduation from the Dixon high school, and Mr. Ferger is employed by the I. N. U. Co. After a brief honeymoon they will return to Dixon to reside where they will receive the best wishes of hosts of friends.

Albus-Marshall

Wedding Today

Virden E. Albus and Miss Viola M. Marshall, both of Rock Falls, were united in marriage by Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson in police court this morning at 11 o'clock. The couple were attended by Leslie Dodson and Miss Dorothy Johnson, both of Rock Falls and will make that city their home.

Girl Scouts Visit

Pool; Donations; Camp Inspection

The Whiteside Sentinel published at Morrison had the following article in Friday's issue telling of the Girl Scout activities at their camp there.

"The girl scouts continue to have a fine time at Camp Amos Horton during camp period. There are nearly 50 present at the two weeks session this year, which closes Tuesday, Aug. 11. Some of the girls went to Lawrence park at Sterling one evening this week to practice diving in preparation for the swimming badge. Saturday morning trucks will be furnished to take all the girls at camp to the park for a swim in the pool.

This evening will be the general campfire and a stunt program will be given. This is visitors night and the program is arranged for the entertainment of those visiting the camp. Gifts have been presented to the Girl Scouts for use at camp, including the following: Lawrence Kiner of Prophetstown furnished a taffy pull for the girls one evening, he having both chocolate and vanilla. Candy and cake were furnished by Dixon ladies, and the local Legion auxiliary donated cakes. Mrs. Frank L. Smith donated apples. Mrs. Walter Swanson tomatoes. A. W. Badger cabbage and E. A. Smith pears and apples.

Mrs. Miller of Sheboygan, Wis. and Mrs. Kirk of Chicago, both of the regional Girl Scout camp committee, visited Camp Amos Horton during the camp period for a two day inspection. Some features at the camp impressed them favorably, especially the shower baths, which are the unique invention of A. Richards, and R. M. Ramsay, both of this city. They also gave their approval of the program carried out at camp and the physical equipment. The scout committee in charge has adopted as many features as possible to make it appropriate for a girl scout camp, and were commented on favorably for their efforts."

Pretty Wedding at St. Lucy's Church Saturday Morning

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Lucy's Catholic church in Austin a pretty wedding was solemnized by the Reverend Father J. A. Dorney with nuptial mass. Preceding the ceremony Harry Harmon formerly of Sterling, sang Miller's Ave Maria; and Panis Angelicus at the communion and later sang "Oh Promise Me," by Reginald DeKoven.

The attractive bride was charming in her gown of Sandeewood willow crepe and carried bride roses and sweet alyssum. The bridal gown was made in the popular silhouette. She wore a white veil and orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister, Miss Geraldine Hutten of Sterling who was gowned in apple green willow crepe and who carried yellow tea roses and larkspur. Leo Keenan attended his brother as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to relatives and a few friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harmon, 5836 Superior street.

Mr. and Mrs. Keenan have left on a brief honeymoon and will be at home to their friends after Sept. 1st, at 702 W. Third street, Dixon.

Mr. Keenan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Keenan of Chicago, formerly of Dixon. He is a graduate of Dixon high school and of St. Viator's College. He is a splendid young man, an employee of the City National Bank in this city and has hosts of friends who congratulate him and wish the couple happiness. Mrs. Keenan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hutten of Sterling and is an attractive young woman. For some time she has been employed in Chicago, living with her sister in Austin. She has many friends in Sterling and community who join those of her husband in wishing them happiness.

Attending the wedding from Sterling were Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hutten, Miss Geraldine Hutten and Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Rock.

Visitors' Night at Amos Horton Camp

Last Friday evening was Visitors night at the Amos Horton camp for Girl Scouts. An interesting program had been arranged, for the parents and friends, in which all the girls took part.

The program began with a group of songs by all the Scouts when they sang the ones most popular among the girls.

The classes in tap dancing under the direction of Miss Viola Berg gave several numbers, the smaller girls giving a tumbling act and the larger girls a chorus. Miss Jean Hart did a number of acrobatic stunts. Misses Betty Zarger and Jean Bovey were in the chorus. After which the latter and Georgianna Shaw gave a specialty number.

After more songs the Indian unit, of which Catherine Conbar is a counselor, presented a dramatization of the famous story of "Pocahontas." (Pokey Hontus.) The rising sun and the tying of the knot were two interesting parts of the play.

The Robin Hood unit sang their camp song. Among the girls in that unit were Betty Sheller, Harriet Weyant, Gladys Graf, Louise Miller, Jean Hart Betty Whitcombe, and Dorothy Goeke from Dixon.

The Gypsy unit presented the remainder of the program. A pantomime of Pierrot and Pierrette and a very humorous sketch of camp life entitled "A Day in Camp." The audience thoroughly enjoyed both of these.

After the program good byes were said and the girls hurried off for taps and bed so they would be ready for Saturday.

Among the visitors for the campfire from Dixon were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Marks and son Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Miller, Mrs. W. D. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Miller and son Bobby, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bovey, Mrs. Shaw and Judge and Mrs. Harry Edwards, Misses Anna Jane and Lucille Hofmann and Josephine Anderson visited Dorothy Jane Dodd, a counselor of the Gypsy unit.

Saturday morning Mrs. Hart and Mrs. Miller from Dixon came down and took the girls to the Lawrence Park pool in Sterling for a swim.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Spirit" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 9.

The Golden Text was, "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit" (Galatians 5:25).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit" (1 Cor. 2:9, 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path" (p. 254).

NOT QUITE ACCURATE.

The expressions we use in every-day speech are often rather inexact.

A few days ago the papers told of an accident at a Pennsylvania camp for poor children.

A young man had taken seven youngsters out into a lake in a boat. Through some accident or other the boat was upset. None of the seven children could swim. The young man managed to keep all seven of them afloat, however, until another boat could come out and take them aboard.

Then, because there was no room for him in the rescue boat, he set out to swim ashore; but his work of saving the children had exhausted him, and he drowned before help could reach him.

The headlines, naturally enough, reported that he had "lost his life"; and when you stop to think about it you will find that there is something a little bit inexact about that expression.

Most of us are generally more or less confused about the underlying purpose that is concealed back of being born and living and dying. We have grown a bit shaky of the old certainties, and we sometimes have a hard time trying to figure out why we are here and where we are going. But there is one point on which men of all times and places have been able to agree.

Whatever life and death may mean, humanity has concluded that the man who gives up his life for sake of someone else has put himself in harmony with the spirit and the plan that are above and beyond the things of the visible world. He has not, in any real sense of the word, "lost" his life; he has paid it out voluntarily to serve another, and it is impossible to believe that he has really lost anything worth keeping by his action.

So, with this lad in Pennsylvania, who died in order that seven children might live—has he, really, "lost his life"? Has he not, rather, gained something; something more than most of us will ever gain, though we live to be eighty?

RETAIL PRICES STAY UP.

Although prices of raw materials continue to drop, prices of finished manufactures do not keep pace with them, and until they do prosperity will not return. This is the warning issued in the current Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, which asserts that purchasing power cannot return to normal until the price gap between raw materials and manufactures is bridged.

Just at present this gap is at its widest point. The Weekly points out that "raw material prices in June were 34.9 per cent below the peak in 1920, whereas finished goods prices showed a decrease of only 24.3 per cent."

It adds that business revivals cannot start until this spread begins to narrow. Since there is little prospect for any recovery in raw material prices, better times evidently wait on a slash in retail prices of manufactured articles.

HELPING AN AGITATOR.

The chief result of the action of that Ohio sheriff who raided and closed a Communistic camp for children seems to have been to provide a lot of free advertising for the 20-year-old girl agitator, Irene Dixon, who conducted the camp.

Out on bond awaiting trial on charges of criminal syndicalism, Miss Dixon reveals that she has speaking engagements "all over the state" which will keep her very busy for some time—so busy, in fact, that she does not believe she will try to re-open the camp at all.

That is about the way raids of that kind usually turn out. The camp itself did an infinitesimal amount of harm. As long as Miss Dixon stayed there her audience was small. Now she has the whole state of Ohio for an audience, and is presenting her doctrines to twenty times as many people as heard them before. Just what has been gained, anyway?

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Said Scouty, "This will be real sport. I'll bet this is a busy port. Just look at all the sailing ships. What are they doing here? Let's ask some man and we'll find out just what this spot is all about. They all look like a friendly sort, so there is naught to fear."

The Travel Man said, "Well, my son, before the asking can be done, I'll answer all your questions. I have dropped in here before. Those ships are commerce ships and they sail in and out of here each day. Each one may have vanilla, that is shipped from here, in store."

"Would you all like to climb aboard and look around?" The Tinies roared, "You bet we would!" So on they went, all thrilled as they could be. "Do anything you want to do," exclaimed one of the friendly crew. "Just take your time. Explore around. There's plenty you can see."

For 'bout an hour they loafed around. A sailor then said, "We are bound for distant ports real shortly. You must all return to land." Soon, from the shore the Tinies gazed upon the ship as sails were raised. Then, as the boat took out to sea, wee Scouty said, "It's grand!" Just then they heard some singing near. Said Clowny, "I know what we hear. It is some natives singing and they must be right near by. 'They are,' replied the Travel Man. 'We'll find them quickly as we can. I'm sure they're sitting on the beach, beneath the clear, blue sky.'"

They left the dock and ran along the shore. The singers of the song soon came in view. All natives, and they smiled up at the boys. The Travel Man said, "Quiet now! Don't raise a row. They'll keep on with their singing if you Tinies make no noise."

(The Tinymites pick some bananas in the next story.)

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

HOOVER WAR APPOINTMENT
On August 10 1917 Herbert Hoover was appointed by President Wilson, United States food administrator under the terms of the Lever Act.

Hoover at once developed an organization for the stimulating of production, checking hoarding and speculation, and conserving food supplies. Because he had comparatively little power in his hands, he called on the people for co-operation. He received almost universal backing for his requests.

Among the food limitations he called for were the meatless and wheatless days. By enrolling thousands of volunteer workers and local committee members he was able to extend the food administration to every state, city and village. During his food administration work Hoover established the U. S. Grain Corporation, Sugar Equalization Board, and Food Purchase Board, all for the purpose of a more centralized handling of food supplies during the emergency.

He was thus able to meet the who were very hard pressed to maintain large food demands of the allies, the morale of their people because of food shortage due to reduced food production and to cargoes lost by submarine destruction.

ROASTING CAN MAKE OR SPOIL THE FLAVOR OF COFFEE

Hills Bros.' Patented Process Removes Risk of Ruining Roast—Assures Matchless Flavor, Always

Roasting determines the flavor of coffee. Too much or too little can cause dissatisfaction. But there is a perfect degree of roast! Hills Bros. invented and patented a process that insures that degree for every pound. It is called Controlled Roasting.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so a perfect, unvarying degree of roast is secured for Hills Bros. Coffee by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. The rare blend passes through the roasters in a steady, unvarying stream. And instead of guessing—as is necessary with ordinary, bulk methods—Hills Bros. control the temperature of the roast automatically. Every berry is perfectly roasted. As a result, every pound has a matchless, unvarying flavor.

To keep this delicious coffee fresh, Hills Bros. pack it in vacuum cans. Air, which makes coffee go stale, is removed and kept out of the cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Uniform Motor

Laws Are Sought

Washington, (UP)—A campaign for full reciprocity among all states in the matter of automobile licenses has been begun by the American Motorists' Association.

The preliminary survey shows, according to a recent statement, that only 16 states now grant full reciprocity, while 23 states have reciprocal agreements in regard to licensing of automobiles.

"Despite the fact that there has been a uniformity of opinion in the state legislatures and state highway motor vehicle commissions," says J. B. Weeks, president of the Motorists' Association, "there are still 28 states which have not yet adopted full reciprocal licenses."

In the general summary made by the Association it was found that Mississippi and Texas permit foreign motorists only 25 days of operation, while two more states, Georgia and Tennessee, give the visiting driver 30 days without the necessity of securing a new license. Arkansas, Indiana, Nebraska and Oklahoma have 60 day limitations and there are 13 states which set a 90-day limit on car owners from other states. In addition to these Arizona has a four months law and six months is allowed in Illinois, Iowa, New Mexico and Virginia.

The remaining states and the District of Columbia all have reciprocal agreements.

SUGGESTS FRANCE

Paris—(UP)—Senator Claude A. Swanson Virginia Democrat, in Europe on an official mission, expressed the hope that the copy of Mount Vernon at the Colonial Exposition will be kept permanently in France as a memorial of the age-old friendship between the United States and France. This would prevent its appearance at the exposition in Chicago in 1932, according to the present schedule, said Senator Swanson says that the matter has been discussed favorably in America.

BROWNS DEFEATED MOUNT MORRIS IN GAME HERE SUNDAY

Single Run Marked Fine
Game Of Soft Ball
Last Evening

GAMES TONIGHT

Dementtown vs Browns—Athletic field.
Swissville vs Indians—Independent field.

Two of the teams in the City Twilight league in tie for first place go into action this evening. Dementtown meets the Browns, whose victories over Mt. Morris and Ashton over the week end, make them dangerous rivals. Swissville meets the Indians at Independent field. Tomorrow evening the Merchants and the City Dudes meet at Athletic field where the right to stay in the pennant race will be decided.

The best and the hardest fought game of soft ball this year was witnessed by a large crowd of fans at Independent field last evening between the Kable Bros. Kitten ball team of Mt. Morris and the West End Browns, the Browns nosing out the boys from Mt. Morris by a score of 1 to 0.

Owsley the south paw pitcher of the losers pitched a wonderful game, allowing the Browns but four scattered hits and striking out three in the first eight innings.

Busker of the winners was hit often but the team worked like a machine behind him.

In the fourth inning after one was out Long of Mt. Morris got on base on a fluke single, Laprence then hit a single over second base, Long stopping at second, Hoffman singled, all three bases. Grush then lined one to Barefield in short right field who jumped high in the air to snag it. Long was then thrown out at the plate trying to score.

The Browns scored their only run in the ninth inning. After one was away, Downs drew a walk, Noakes then hit sharp single to right field, Downs stopping at second. Carlson put a fast one to second base who fumbled it, all hands being safe and leading the bases. Paddy McDonald then hit a sizzling single to left field, Downs galloping across the plate with the winning run just as a shower of rain sent every one home well satisfied.

A hat was passed around and a small collection was taken which will be turned over to the Good Fellows to help the unemployed.

Baseball Gossip

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The last third of the baseball season is a time when major league pitchers are expected to do their best, but it has been a good many seasons since they have been so effective as in the current campaign.

Three major league moundmen stepped out over the week-end to pitch really great games.

Bob Burke, lanky Washington southpaw, outshone them all on Saturday when he shut out Boston without a hit. It was the second no-run game of the season. Yesterday two more pitchers came along with one-hit games.

Guy Bush of the Chicago Cubs held the league leading St. Louis Cardinals to a single blow, a scratch single by George Watkins, while Vincent Barton, Chicago's rookie outfielder, won the game for him by clouting a home run, his fifth in a week. Paul Derringer, succumbing to the jinx of a pre-game gift, lost a real hard luck game. He gave the Cubs only three hits in eight innings and fanned nine only to lose the 1 to 0 decision on Barton's clout.

Dick Coffman of the St. Louis Browns pitched the other one-hit game yesterday, beating the Chicago White Sox by a 1 to 0 count in the second game of a double header. The only hit off Coffman, who gave one walk and hit one batsman, was a roller over second by Kerr. Bob Welland, recently recalled from Louisville, opposed him in the close duel. Pat Caraway, lean left hander, held the Browns to five hits to beat Walter Stewart 4 to 2 in the opener.

The various low-hit games had little effect on the league standings. The triumphant Cubs finished eight games behind the Cardinals and still a point behind the New York Giants, who pounded out a 9 to 4 victory over Brooklyn. Fred Fitzsimmons the Giants piled up their 9-0 lead before he eased up and gave ten blows.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati split a doubleheader, the Reds winning the first game by attacking Larry French in the seventh for all their runs in a 6 to 2 triumph and the Pirates hammering Frey and Rixey in the eighth to win the second 8 some ground by taking two games from the Phillies 5 to 4 and 6 to 3.

Mahaffey, Grove and Simmons shared the honors in the final game of the American League's "crucial" series as the Philadelphia Athletics came back from two defeats to down the New York Yankees 5 to 3. Mahaffey pitched six shutout innings and Grove came in his rescue and stopped a dangerous rally in the seventh. Simmons accounted for three of Philadelphia's runs with two homers.

Washington had some trouble holding the place ten games behind the Athletics which they had gained while the champions were losing the first two battles of the series to the Yankees. The Senators had to go ten innings to down the Boston Red Sox 4 to 3. Ed Morris, who relieved Milt Gaston in the tenth, pitched one ball to Manush and saw him drive out a long fly to bring in the winning run.

Detroit and Cleveland played loosely in a nip-and-tuck game, the Tigers winning 9 to 8. Two homers, including a pinch four bagger by Bib Falk, failed to offset Detroit's 14 hits.

Ed Brandt and Willie Sherdell, Braves—Pitched Boston to double triumph over Phillies.

NEAR HALL OF FAME
St. Louis, Aug. 10—(AP)—Guy Bush, veteran right-hander of the Chicago Cubs pitching staff, missed a no-hit game yesterday by such a narrow margin that he received all the congratulations that go with entrance into baseball's hall of fame.

Bush, his teammates, who rushed onto the infield to shake hands, and most of the spectators believed he had held the St. Louis Cardinals hitless.

The official scorer ruled, however, a hit for George Watkins, the second man to face Bush. Watkins hit a slow grounder to short, which English, coming in quickly, fumbled.

The scorer held Watkins would have beaten the play at first, even though English had fielded the ball cleanly.

Seven Cardinals in addition to Watkins reached first base, two on errors by Bush, one on Lester Bell's error, one on a fielder's choice and three on passes.

CARDINALS AND ATHLETICS LOST GROUND IN WEEK

But They Seem Certain
To Meet In World Series Coming Fall

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Aug. 10—(UP)—St. Louis and Philadelphia, respective leaders in the National and American League pennant races, lost ground to their rivals during the past week but despite the slumps the pace setters appear virtually certain of meeting in the 1931 world series.

Philadelphia closed the week with a 10-game lead over its nearest rivals and St. Louis holds an eight game margin in the National League, although neither team was among the leaders in games won during the week starting Monday, Aug. 3 and closing Sunday, Aug. 9.

Philadelphia, with three victories and two defeats tied with the second place Washington club for third honors in the American League with the eighth place Detroit Tigers turning in the best record of the week, four victories and two defeats.

The Chicago Cubs set the pace in the National League with five victories and two defeats—both of which were at the hands of the league leading St. Louis Cardinals who took second honors with four victories and two defeats.

Boston's Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds had the poorest records for the week. Boston earning eighth place among American League teams with five defeats and one victory, while Cincinnati dropped further into the National League cellar with two victories against seven defeats.

St. Louis had the best offensive and defensive record in the senior league with 49 runs scored to 16 for their opponents, while the Chicago White Sox were the American League's high scorers with 33 runs, and the Washington Senators the best defensive team with 13 runs for their opponents in five games.

Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics moved into the major league batting lead with a total of .382. Ruth, however, added two home runs to his total and now is only one home run behind his teammate Gehrig who leads the two leagues with .31.

Chuck Klein, National League leader, collected three circuit bluffs during the week and ran his total to 26.

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Aug. 10—(UP)—That canon of the American credo which holds that the sportsmen and sportswomen of this country love nothing so much as an open fight, would seem to be in error when applied to the game of golf.

If you doubt the accuracy of this observation please read the attendance figures of the 1931 National Open at Toledo, and be partially convinced, at least. The affair at Toledo, with Bobby Jones on the sidelines for the first time in many years, was as wide open as the old Barbary coast. Everybody and his uncle Abner had a sound chance for victory. Moreover, the field was the most international in years, with stars of half a dozen nations competing.

Yet, despite all these attractions, what happened? The boys and girls stayed away in droves even when the tournament reached the final round, and Burke and Von Elm began the bitterest fight in the history of the event. What is more, they continued to show a magnificent lack of interest even when the tariff was lowered to $1. So you see you can't very well blame it on the depression.

No, there is but one answer and that answer is Bob Jones and the mighty appeal of his genius. The followers of the game were willing to pay any sort of price, undergo any sort of hardship, in order to see the man from Atlanta sweep all before him.

Further proof that John J. Public and his children would rather watch the Jones man wade to victory than see a perfectly balanced field fight it out all the way, will be offered when the amateurs gather at Chicago late this summer. With Jones down in Florida no one can name the semi-finalist, even, with any sort of assurance.

Yet, with all this uncertainty in regard to the outcome, the tournament will fall by many thousands to attract the number of customers who swarmed over Merion's rolling fairways last year to watch a tournament that was over the day Jones filed his entry blank.

We for one, refuse to become excited over Charley Retzlaff's knock-out victory over Ricardo Bertazzola, for Ricardo, bless his round heels, has been tipped over so often his chest is sun-burned from the overhead ring lights. Ricardo's manager, by the way, has developed a unique method of saving time and trouble. He simply writes Ricardo's instructions on the canvas and then hies himself to a movie.

SPORT SLANTS

The correspondents commented upon the so-called "killer instinct" manifested by Helen Willis Moody in her one-sided victory over Helen Jacobs for the Seabright bowl.

They seemed to think the world's foremost woman tennis player applied the pressure to bring about a humiliating setback for her California rival for several reasons. First and perhaps foremost, there has been a lack of cordiality between the California Helens, although the origin or reasons for this have never been quite clear. Both came up in the same Berkeley school. At one time, Miss Jacobs was touted to take the measure of Mrs. Moody but her chances of doing so now appear extremely remote.

Moreover, Seabright has held a "jinx" for Mrs. Moody that she was perhaps anxious to shake off as convincingly as possible. It was on this Jersey turf that Elizabeth Ryan twice took the measure of the Californian, in 1925 and 1926, at a time when Helen was national champion.

This year's victory is the first for Mrs. Moody in the Seabright singles. In her first two eastern finals, the first at Essex against Mrs. Anna Harper, the world's champion lost just one game in four sets.

DIVE! AMAZE YOUR FRIENDS

Whether or not the notice has been circulated in the listic fraternity, especially the heavyweight brothers, it may be interesting to note that "a club devoted exclusively to diving, the first of its kind in existence, has been formed" in New York.

"One of the founders of the club," the notice adds, "announces that membership is open to all and that beginners and advanced divers of both sexes may join."

"It is the object of the club to perfect a set of divers which will represent it in the various diving competitions next season."

TOUGH

Considering the class of golfers in the Pacific northwest, especially around the Portland area, three places out of 150 hardly seemed a sufficient allotment in the sectional qualifying play for the National amateur championship.

It resulted in the elimination of as stalwart a performer as Don Moe, who missed qualifying by a stroke.

Five out of the 32 match play competitors in the national tournament of 1929 were from this sector. Two Oregonians, Moe and Dr. O. F. Willing were on the 1930 Walker Cup team.

Hits: Final Score
Was 11 to 3

The Dixon Junior Legion baseball team won a 11 to 3 victory over the Thomson Juniors at the Independent field Sunday afternoon, Cox allowing but three scattered hits. Brown and Cox equalled their strike out list with eight victims each. The Freeport Junior Legion is scheduled to meet the Dixon team on the local ground next Sunday afternoon in what promises to be a hard fought battle. The score of yesterday's game was as follows:

SPORT BRIEFS

Orangeburg, N. Y., Aug. 10—(UP)—Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, opened training quarters today at Gus Wilson's camp in preparation for his Aug. 20 bout with Jimmy McLarnin at Yankee Stadium.

Massapequa Park, N. Y., Aug. 10—(UP)—Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver welterweight, plans to try for a knockout victory over Billy Petrolle in their 10-round bout at New York, Aug. 20. McLarnin won a decision over Petrolle in their last bout but wants a knockout to avenge the severe beating received from Petrolle last December.

Chicago, Aug. 10—(UP)—Promoter Mike Malloy's boxing tournament to select the middleweight champion of Illinois will get under way at White city tonight with three 8-round bouts.

Frank Battaglia, Winnipeg, Canada, will meet Johnny Morse, Cuba, in the main bout. Clyde Chastain, Dallas, Tex., will meet Al Stillman, St. Louis, in the semi-final. Gary Leach, Gary, Ind., will meet Johnny Burns, California, in the other bout.

St. Louis, Aug. 10—(UP)—Hack Wilson, Chicago Cubs' outfielder, nursed a sore jaw today after being knocked out by a line drive from Gabby Hartnett's bat. Wilson was pitching to the Cubs in batting practice yesterday when a line drive by Hartnett hit him on the jaw and knocked him to the ground. It took several minutes to bring him back to consciousness.

Culver, Ind., Aug. 10—(UP)—Billy Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., youngster, was favored to win the national junior tennis title in the tournament which opened here today with more than 10 entries.

Frankie Parker, 15-year-old Milwaukee star, was conceded the best chance to win the national boys' title from the field of 40 competitors.

Chicago, Aug. 10—(UP)—William T. Tilden, former national tennis champion, and Karel Kozeluh, Czechoslovakian, will play their second visit to Chicago within two weeks when they meet in a pair of professional tennis matches on the Northwestern University courts Friday and Saturday.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 10—(UP)—Al Burrell, 28, Columbus, Ohio, race driver, was killed yesterday at the Speedway here when his automobile ran into another machine, and turned over.

A crowd of 10,000 witnessed the accident. Burrell's automobile was traveling nearly 90 miles an hour in the feature event when the accident occurred.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 10—(AP)—An aggregate of $125,000 will be distributed in the five-day Grand Circuit meeting starting today.

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED TODAY IN HAVANA, CUBA

Troops Suppressed Outbreak Against President Machado

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 10.—(UP)—Martial law prevailed in Havana today, after police and loyal troops suppressed another outbreak against the regime headed by President Gerardo Machado.

The authorities captured an insurgent arsenal after a sharp battle. Two men and a woman were killed in the fighting. Seven police were wounded. Two were expected to die.

A state of siege—martial law—was declared in the Havana district and in the province of Pinar Del Rio. Loyal troops were concentrated to frustrate a purported rebel mobilization scheme.

Wild rumors of further trouble, however, filled the Cuban Capital, despite government assurance that calm would be maintained.

The police arrested more than a score of Nationalist, or opposition party leaders.

A yacht on which Gen. Mario Menocal, former President, and Col. Carlos Mendietta were believed fleeing toward the Gulf of Mexico was pursued by government boats. Menocal's son was arrested when he left the yacht in a small boat just before it escaped capture by police by dashing out to sea.

Charges that Nationalist leaders were seeking to mobilize rebel forces in Pinar Del Rio were made by the government. A force of some 1,000 loyal troops was rushed into the province, and 17 Nationalist leaders were arrested.

The only violence occurred at Luyano, near Havana. Police raided the residence of Arthur Pino but were repulsed by heavy rifle fire. They retired and summoned reserves, who engaged the barricaded fugitives in the house for an hour.

They fired many rounds into windows and doors before the defenders surrendered and the police entered the house. Pino, Senora Velia Aumeda and Philippe Cabeza were found dead inside. A large amount of ammunition, rifles and one machine gun were found.

A conscription on all telegraph, telephone and radio communication on the island was established to prevent spread of unrest. Additional troops were held ready for duty and all strategic points in Pinar Del Rio were patrolled by detachments of rural guards.

THE OLD COUNSELLOR'S COLUMN

Determining Your Financial Objective

In setting up a financial objective there are so many things which have a bearing, that it is necessary to make a personal analysis in each case. If this is done thoroughly, with deliberate judgment, and with the disposition to face the facts squarely, a man can clearly estimate the job ahead of him. Since effort is sure to meet with some measure of success, whereas going along "hit-or-miss" from year to year, simply hoping for the best, is equally sure to lead to disappointment.

THE OLD COUNSELLOR'S COLUMN

Determining Your Financial Objective

In the following are summed up the main considerations to be taken into account in determining one's financial objective, with brief discussion of how they affect the problem:

AGE—Obviously the young man has the best opportunity, in point of time, to build a competence. Even a moderate surplus invested each year in safe bonds will reach a surprising total at the age of retirement if a man begins his accumulation in his early thirties. But even after 45, many men still have twenty years of earning power before them. Start as early as you can.

FAMILY—The man with a growing family has, of course, a greater financial problem than the man without children. He must provide for a period of extra heavy expense while his children are being educated and prepared to stand on their own feet. But after that, the load should lighten and he can reasonably count on accelerating his rate of accumulation, especially if he has made a good start by investing regularly as much as he could during the years of heaviest family expenses.

BUSINESS—Some businesses are more hazardous than others. If one's business is of a kind that has ups and downs, the most should be made of the good years by increasing the amount set aside for investment.

EARNING POWER—Men in salaried positions or in the professions must depend mainly upon accumulation derived from their personal effort, more so than the owner of a business who might derive an income from it after he had become inactive. Salaried or professional income is often slow to develop fully and the period of peak earnings may not last more than ten to fifteen years. Hence, men in this class should aim to stabilize their standard of living well within their average income, investing the surplus each year to acquire the principal required to insure maintenance of adequate income for the future.

INSURANCE—Allowance for insurance policies which may be payable at age 60 or thereabouts or substantial cash values that will have accrued at that time may be given consideration as making up a part of the amount set aside for financial objective.

SIX ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH IN OHIO YESTERDAY

Defective Propeller Is Blamed for Tragedy Near Cincinnati

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 10.—(UP)—A defective propeller was blamed today for an air liner crash here yesterday, killing six, including one man en route home to see his new-born baby.

An American Airways plane fell from 300 feet shortly after it left Lunken airport for Atlanta, ploughed into the bed of the Miami river, and nosed along, crumbling the cabin and crushing all aboard.

The dead: Marvin T. Odell, 23, the pilot with 4000 hours of flying.

William K. Deward, 32, co-pilot with 3000 hours of flying.

Miss Gwenna D. Hughes, 21, Fort Thomas, Ky., just starting a vacation.

William E. Keith, Atlanta, returning from radio convention in Chicago.

William H. Brimberry, Atlanta, returning to see week-old baby and wife in hospital.

V. B. Baum, Memphis, construction contractor.

The right motor of the all metal tri-motor Ford plane was found some distance from the wreckage of the ship, indicating the propeller fault caused a vibration and consequent weakening of the ship.

There was no fire. The pilot had shut off the motors before he died.

OIL INDUSTRY IS NEAR RUINATION, STERLING STATES

Texas Governor Insists the Production Must Be Curtailed At Once

Austin, Tex., Aug. 10.—(UP)—Failure of the Texas legislature to pass conservation measures in its present special session may spell ruin to the American oil industry, Governor Ross Sterling told the United Press in an interview.

Both Houses of the legislature defeated bills Friday which would have created a conservation commission to regulate the drilling of Texas oil and its production.

The defeated measure, sponsored by the administration, constituted an important part of proposed remedial legislation. The special legislative session was convened expressly to enact it into a law.

Governor Sterling, himself a practical and successful oil man, warned of what he considered might be the consequences of the bills' defeat.

"Ninety per cent of the persons engaged in the American oil industry either are bankrupt, or will be, unless relief is provided from the present chaotic waste in production," he said.

The Governor sat at his executive desk, a massive man of 200 pounds, six feet in height, and amply filled his chair. At his back were photographs of his family and an oil painting of Woodrow Wilson. On his desk waved a miniature lone star flag of the Texas Republic.

Oil men agree that relief to their industry can come only by control of production in the flush east Texas fields, whose daily flow has now created a new all time record for American oil pals.

"If the legislature defeats our conservative measures, of which the commission was one, the oil industry will receive no relief from this session of the legislature," Governor Sterling said.

"The Railroad Commission which now attempts to control the industry will be powerless as the law under which it has attempted to operate has been declared invalid and orders they sought to enforce were without authority.

"I don't know what will happen now to the American oil business unless it is going to be worked out by the old law providing for survival of the fittest.

"You may have a corn crib with enough corn in it to feed your hogs all winter, but if you open the door of the crib and let the hogs run wild inside, your corn will be gone in a couple of days. That's what's happening in the oil business.

"The only reason for the present ruinous low price of oil is surplus production. At the present price of gasoline, including the tax, the refiner can't make money even if the oil were given to him. With gasoline selling at twelve cents a gallon the state tax, the service station's share, the wholesaler's share and other distributing costs represent all but one cent. The one cent which goes to the refiner wouldn't pay him a profit even if he received the oil free at the well. Oil men are giving away their oil these days."

He said his proposal for a conservation commission would have made possible selection of able men who could agree not only on regulation of production but on future exploitation.

"I don't know what we'll do next," he concluded, "Maybe Bill Murray has the right idea."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LIANE BARRETT, 18, is beautiful, tries in vain to forget VAN ROBERT, wealthy polo player, when his engagement to her is announced to MURIEL LADD, popular debutante. Liane's mother, Mrs. BARRETT, is an actress and it is during Cass's engagement in stock at a fashionable Long Island colony that the Barrett meet MRS. CLEESPAUGH, wealthy widow. When Cass goes on tour in the fall Liane becomes Mrs. Cleespaugh's secretary.

CLEESPAUGH, a U. G. H., the widow's only son, asks Liane to marry him. Liane cannot inherit his father's fortune unless he marries before he is 25. Liane accepts, agreeing the marriage is to be a matter of form only.

MRS. AMBERTON, come to visit the Cleespaughs and Treas, who wants to marry Liane, begins to make trouble for Liane. Treas, a newspaper reporter, Clive drops himself to business and Liane tries to make a home for him.

On a shopping trip she encounters Robert. He begs her to go abroad with him. After a quarrel with Clive, Liane goes to see Cass and tells her she is going away with Robert. Cass reveals Liane is not her child but the daughter of her sister, EUNA, and Robert's stepfather whose first wife Liane was. The girl is shaken by this news. She starts home and hears newsboys shouting extras. Robert has been killed in an accident.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

LIANE walked without knowing where her feet carried her. She was jostled in the crowds. She had a sudden desire for refuge and summoned a taxi. The driver thought she was ill, her face was so white. She gave him the address of the Bleekman and stumbled into the cab.

Unfolding the paper she looked again at the dread words. The newspaper story smote her like a blow.

"Mr. James Van Dusen Robert of East 62nd St. was fatally injured early today when the automobile in which he was riding skidded and struck a tree on the Jericho Turnpike near Willow Stream, Long Island. Mr. Robert was returning from a farewell dinner given in his honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walte of Willow Stream. Policemen who reached the scene of the accident shortly after the crash said the death car must have swerved to avoid a smaller car, driven by Pietro Lombardosi of Merrick, a truck gardener. Lombardosi was dazed and could make no statement."

There was more. Van's clubs, his diplomatic appointment, the name of his college. Words, words, words. Liane felt herself suffocating under the weight of them.

She was bowed down by the pity of it, the waste. Yesterday he had been debonair and smiling; today he lay broken, voiceless. She stifled the moan that rose to her lips. The taxi driver looked at her curiously as she alighted, and fumbled in her bag for change. There was none. She thrust a bill toward him and fled.

She never knew how she reached her rooms. She found herself on the couch, face down, shaken by tearless sobs.

After an aeon she felt a hand on her shoulder. She opened her eyes. Clive stood over her, his face a mask of pity. "I'm sorry," he said.

He brought hot tea and made her drink it. She looked with wonder at the lighted lamps. Twilight had fallen. She remembered and moaned again.

Clive propped her up with pillows. He talked to her in a low voice. She looked at him with great brilliant eyes.

"Mother told me today," she said. "He did not comprehend. Painfully she explained. 'She told me who my father was. She thought Van was my half brother. Somehow she never had learned he'd been adopted.'"

"But you don't need me!" She began to weep, self pity rushing over her like a tide. "No one does."

When the doctor, summoned by Clive, arrived she had collapsed. "Just nerves," the genial man announced. He thought he was used to the vagaries of the idle society woman. "She'd be right as rain if she had a child or two to worry about," he told Clive, smiling as he buttoned his gloves. He wondered why the younger man flushed so darkly.

"Nothing wrong in that quarter, is there?" he asked with the medical man's casual bluntness. "Nothing that I know of," Clive muttered.

"Well, that's often a great remedy." The physician chuckled. "I'll drop in tomorrow to see how she is."

CASS came and had a talk with her and in the afternoon Liane arose and dressed. She was strangely quiet. She had a good child's docility and when Clive spoke to her she answered with humility and candor. She tried not to think of Van's funeral. Other people would come to pay him respect but she would not be there. It was part of her punishment.

In a week she seemed almost normal again. She was always pale now and in some indefinable way she had taken on an air of maturity. Clive was deeply concerned about her. He acquired the habit of leaving the office early and coaxing her to ride in the park. He wanted to teach her to drive but she said apathetically, "Not now. Later, perhaps." Her passivity was more moving than tears would have been.

On a day two weeks after Van's death Clive opened the door of the suite with his latch key. He expected to find Liane stretched out on the couch with a book. He came in softly. There was no sign of her in the sitting room, so he went to the door of her boudoir and knocked gently. There was no reply. After a moment he turned the knob and went in.

It was all right, he assured himself. She must have decided to go for a walk. She would be back directly. Through the door of the closet he could see her frocks hanging, fragile stuffs fragrant with the scent she always used. Then he noticed that her sable coat hung with the other things. Curious she had not worn that. It was a cold day.

Troubled, scarcely knowing why, Clive went to his own room. On the bureau lay a square cream colored envelope. He read:

"Clive, dear, you've been wonderful to me, far better than I deserved, but I can't go on like this. I feel a hypocrite in the eyes of the world. Our marriage was a mistake from the start. You can't make a marriage without love. We both know that. Don't try to find me. I've got to work out my own salvation. Only forgive me. I feel I have injured you past forgiveness but I ask it, anyway."

He turned, frantic, back to her room. She had left everything—her rings, her jewels, every trinket he had given her. He held the pearls to his lips for a moment.

Let me be a help. I want to be."

He said, "I'm going to give you a sleeping draught. You'll be ill."

He mixed it for her. She drank unprotesting. Long after she slept he sat with his head in his hands.

In the morning she was quieter but the look of terror lingered in her eyes. At breakfast he said, "Let me take you away some place until this has all blown over."

She looked at him. She said lifelessly, "You're so good, so kind, but I can't let you do it. I must go away and not come back any more. I have injured you enough. You must get a divorce and marry some girl who will make the right sort of wife for you. You're free now. Your mother no longer owns you. Do what you like. I shall agree to whatever you say."

His laugh held no mirth. "That's foolish talk. You need me just now. Let me be a help. I want to be."

Curious she had not worn that. It was a cold day.

Troubled, scarcely knowing why, Clive went to his own room. On the bureau lay a square cream colored envelope. He read:

"Clive, dear, you've been wonderful to me, far better than I deserved, but I can't go on like this. I feel a hypocrite in the eyes of the world. Our marriage was a mistake from the start. You can't make a marriage without love. We both know that. Don't try to find me. I've got to work out my own salvation. Only forgive me. I feel I have injured you past forgiveness but I ask it, anyway."

He turned, frantic, back to her room. She had left everything—her rings, her jewels, every trinket he had given her. He held the pearls to his lips for a moment.

Let me be a help. I want to be."

He said, "I'm going to give you a sleeping draught. You'll be ill."

He mixed it for her. She drank unprotesting. Long after she slept he sat with his head in his hands.

In the morning she was quieter but the look of terror lingered in her eyes. At breakfast he said, "Let me take you away some place until this has all blown over."

She looked at him. She said lifelessly, "You're so good, so kind, but I can't let you do it. I must go away and not come back any more. I have injured you enough. You must get a divorce and marry some girl who will make the right sort of wife for you. You're free now. Your mother no longer owns you. Do what you like. I shall agree to whatever you say."

His laugh held no mirth. "That's foolish talk. You need me just now. Let me be a help. I want to be."

He said, "I'm going to give you a sleeping draught. You'll be ill."

He mixed it for her. She drank unprotesting. Long after she slept he sat with his head in his hands.

HOOVER HARD AT WORK ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Fifty-seventh Year Finds
President in Excellent
Health

Washington, Aug. 10.—(UP)—One more year has added its gridding burdens for President Hoover. He's been through five of the years now. They have been of all varieties. Some were marked by poverty, some by riches, some by glory, some by heartbreaking disappointments, but all of them by hard work, very hard work, and very little play. And as the years go by Mr. Hoover no doubt is more and more inclined to agree with the man who said the first hundred years were the hardest. Mr. Hoover is observing his 57th birthday today. He does not make much fuss about his birthday. Last year Mrs. Hoover surprised the bakers of a cake for him. There was a little modest fun in the presidential circle which was spending the week-end at Rapidan camp. The last year has thrown heavier responsibilities upon the President.

Hard Worker
Washington cannot remember a President who has worked so hard in peace time as Mr. Hoover. He has taken no vacation this year, except his ten-day cruise to Porto Rico last spring. He took no summer vacation last year. Only his brief week-end trips to Rapidan camp have served to take him away from the problems on his desk. Even there he is frequently interrupted. During the debt moratorium negotiations even at camp he was constantly using the telephone and once had to cut short his stay to get back to Washington.

While his anxieties have been heavy Hoover has stood up physically under them to the satisfaction of his physician, Captain Joel T. Boone, U. S. N. Mr. Hoover continues his medicine ball—it is actually a form of volley ball played with a heavy ball—every morning. That is an achievement in Washington's almost tropical weather. His hair is graying rapidly and it is thinning. But he is holding his weight down and his disposition holds up heroically considering what it has to contend with.

Amused at Anecdotes
Recently Mr. Hoover became annoyed at publication of numerous small items about his personal activities. They were mostly little human anecdotes. One most objected to was to the effect that, worn out by his debt moratorium negotiations he attempted an afternoon nap and was interrupted by a carpenter hammering outside. A servant was dispatched to declare a moratorium on the noise. There was a simile in the incident which showed that the greatest are subject to the same annoyance as humbler folks. But Mr. Hoover regarded this as an intrusion on his private affairs. As to public affairs, he displays an inclination to take the public more into his confidence. Seldom have negotiations been conducted so openly as were those attending the moratorium proposal. This was one of the big events of Mr. Hoover's administration and the widespread acclaim he received from leaders in both parties brought about for the time being a cessation in the Democratic attack which had been carried on without interruption almost from the day he took office.

This year is regarded by many as the most critical of the President's term. It tends to set the issues for the 1932 Presidential campaign. Republican leaders are practically unanimous in predicting Mr. Hoover's renomination next year. They are preparing for a hard campaign and are hopeful that a business pick-up will come to the administration's aid before his 58th birthday arrives when he probably will be in the midst of his campaign for re-election.
